The Weather.

U. S. DEP'T OF AGRICULTURE, WEATHER BUREAU, WILMINGTON, N. C., May 6.

Meteorological data for yesterday:

Temperature: 8 a. m., 56°; 8 p. m., 60°; maximum, 68°; minimum, 51°; mean, 60°.

Rainfall for the day, T.; rainfall since 1st of month up to date, .66 inches.

Weather conditions for twelve hours ended at 8 p. m., May 5th, furnished by the Weather Bureau office:

The barometer continues low off the Middle Atlantic coast, with partly cloudy weather and local showers reported north of the Carolinas to New York during the past twelve hours. The barometer has continued above the normal over the interior, with highest over the Ohio valley and the Lakes, with fair warmer weather reported under it. Another storm area is developing from the Northwest, while a high area overlies the central Rocky Mountain slope. It is cooler over the country south of Kansas, with showers occurring during the day. The warm wave covers the country from the Tennessee valley northwest over Minnesota, with maximum temperatures above 80 degrees noted at all reporting stations.

The weather continues cool along the east coast, owing to the stationary condition of the low area. It promises to be much warmer Thursday and Friday, with fair weather prevailing over this locality.

COTTON REGION BULLETIN.

With the exception of light showers along the immediate Southeast Atlantic coast and general rain over Texas, the weather has continued fair and warm over the cotton belt. It was decidedly cooler yesterday morning over North Carolina.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., May 4—At 8 a. m. the stage of water in the Cape Fear river was 13.1 feet.

FORECAST FOR TO-DAY.

Fair, except showers near the coast in the early morning; warmer; northerly winds, becoming variable.

There are some hard headed men in the State of Washington. One of them was accidentally shot in the right temple but instead of going through his head as it would have done with most civilized men, who had anything to live for, the ball scooted around under the scalp and came out at the left ear, and he thought it was a good joke on the ball.

When the Princess of Wales gave $500 to provide dinners for the poor of London on the Queen's jubilee day the newspapers lauded her to the skies, but when millionaire Hooley gave $2,000,000 to the poor of London they scolded him for encouraging pauperism. It is hard to see through those English newspapers.

A manufacturing company near Pittsburg has received a $600,000 order for steel freight cars for one of the railroads. It is claimed that while more costly than wooden cars the steel car will outlast many wooden cars, and would be incomparably cheaper in the end. They will cost about $1,000 each, weigh 35,000 pounds and carry 50 tons.

IMPORTANT CAPTURE.

Arrest of Wm. White Alias Hart, Charged With Robbing the Postoffice, Express and Railroad Warehouse at Brinkley.

Wm. White alias Gilam Hart, colored, is in jail in this city, charged with robbing the postoffice, express office and railroad warehouse at Brinkley, on the W., C. & A. R. R. The robbery occurred on the night of April 28th last, and the news was telegraphed to this city. Deputy Sheriff J. P. Flynn immediately set to work upon the case, as it was supposed the robber or robbers would come to Wilmington. Tuesday night Deputy Flynn and Police Officer Wm. Murray arrested Wm. White alias Gilam Hart, colored, charged with the robbery. Upon a warrant from the court of U. S. Commissioner R. H. Bunting, the accused was committed to jail to await trial next Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Among the articles stolen at Brinkley was a double-barrel gun, an umbrella and a banjo, the property of a Mr. Pittman. It transpired that the accused had sold a banjo to a colored man named McPherson. The banjo was obtained from McPherson, and Mr. Pittman, upon his arrival from Brinkley yesterday afternoon, identified it as his property.

Yesterday morning deputy marshal Parish, of Maxton, who is here in attendance upon the United States Court, had occasion to visit the jail, and while there identified White alias Hart as one of the parties connected with the postoffice robbery in Maxton a short time ago.

The Newbern Situation.

There is evidently some little apprehension of trouble in Newbern over the municipal complications, though the steps thus far taken by the authorities there are only precautionary. Tuesday a telegram was received here from Mayor pro tem. Primrose requesting Lieutenant-Commander Morton, of the Naval Battalion, to send immediately five hundred ball cartridges. Yesterday forenoon another telegram was received by the Lieutenant-Commander asking that five hundred more ball cartridges be forwarded. Both requisitions were promptly filled. So, the Naval Reserves are now ready for business, as they were recently equipped with forty rifles and accoutrements.

It is not thought there will be any serious trouble, especially since the Newbern authorities have not forgotten the old motto: "In time of peace prepare for war."

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

OF WILMINGTON, IN WHICH THE SESSIONS OF THE CONVENTION WILL BE HELD.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE BAPTISTS OF WILMINGTON SINCE 1816.

Many Interesting Reminiscences—The Church Building Cost Sixty Thousand and the Annex Eight Thousand Dollars—Has Had Many Able and Faithful Pastors.

[Prepared Specially For The Star.]

Some time in the earliest days of this century a Baptist church was organized in Wilmington, but when and by whom is not known. Baptists are a peculiar people in their neglect of historical data, and the earlier records have passed from human ken. In 1816 there was an organization, from which messengers were sent to the association, the Old Kehukee, which embraced all the territory in the tide-water section of North Carolina. At this time the church was a little band indeed—only twenty in number—and this probably included colored members. But if weak, still the young church lived and developed. The recorded history extant begins with 1833, when the membership numbered forty or more, and were worshipping in a neat frame building which is now a dwelling house, No. 305 South Front street. Still we have no knowledge of the pastors who ministered unto the spiritual needs of the church. In 1837 a Mr. Hawley seems to have exercised pastoral oversight, succeeded the next year by Rev. Mr. Culpepper. Rev. A. Paul Repiton was pastor for a short while, beginning with April, '39. An interregnum followed, during which Rev. Messrs. Napp and Armstrong supplied the pulpit. In 1843 Rev. A. J. Battle, a licentiate of the Church, was called as pastor. For some reason he soon severed the relation, and Rev. Mr. Repiton again took charge. In the Fall of 1844 Rev. Jas. McDaniel, D. D., accepted a call and for eight years was the acceptable and beloved under-shepherd. After Dr. McDaniel's return to Fayetteville in 1853, Rev. Mr. Meredith acted as supply until Rev. W. H. Jordan became pastor, who remained with the church until September, 1855. A Mr. Ranney, a licentiate, supplied the pulpit for a few months, and with Rev. Mr. Bradford filled the time until in February, 1856, came the beloved John Lamb Pritchard, of blessed memory, who died at his post in 1863, a victim of the yellow fever scourge which devastated our city.

The next pastor was Rev. W. M. Young, whose faithful work contributed very largely to the successful undertaking of a new building, the church at Fifth and Market at which the Convention meets. Rev. Dr. J. C. Hiden became pastor in 1868, and for eight and a half years served faithfully, acceptably and efficiently, winning many friends whose devotion is beautiful and remarkable. Rev. Dr. Jas. B. Taylor was the next pastor, whose term of nine years was marked by many advance steps. Dr. Taylor, like Dr. Hiden, numbers his friends and admirers by the hundreds, and both will receive a hearty welcome in Wilmington during the Convention. In 1884 Rev. Dr. Thos. H. Pritchard accepted the pastoral care of the church, and though no longer with us for he "passed over the river" just after the Convention decided to meet in Wilmington, yet he lives and shall abide in the hearts of our people. For three months after Dr. Pritchard went to Charlotte Rev. W. T. Jones supplied the pulpit until March, '92, when Rev. Will B. Oliver became pastor.

The church has had many gracious ingatherings, notable among which are the meetings of 1842—when 146 were baptised—1849, 1858, 1874, 1890.

The First church is the parent of six other churches, of which the Brooklyn Baptist and the Southside, in our city, are two. The former of these is now full grown, having a membership equal to the mother church, a splendid organization, and needs but a building to accommodate the ever-growing congregation to take a place in the front rank. The Southside is but two years old; but a lustier infant is not to be found, and the future bids fair for this aggressive organization.

The house of the First church was begun in 1860 and dedicated in 1870. It is early English Gothic in style, fully equipped for church work, and an ornament to the city. It cost as it stands about $60,000. It is a memorial of the pastorates of Pritchard, Young, Hiden and Taylor, all of whom labored faithfully to secure, to complete or to pay for its erection.

The handsome and commodious Sunday School and Lecture rooms—the annex—was begun during Dr. Pritchard's pastorate and is nearing completion under the administration of the present pastor. When completed it will have cost $8,000.

The First church has had since 1832 nearly 2,000 members, but by reason of death, removals, the churches constituted and strict discipline, its membership at present is small, numbering only 400.

COLONIAL DAMES.

A Delightful Entertainment Last Evening at Abbie Chadbourn Memorial Hall.

It is now a proverbial saying that when ever an entertainment, be it concert, festival, tea or theatrical, is given under the auspices and direction of the North Carolina Society of the Colonial Dames of America, it is one of rare importance, as the entertainment given last night at Abbie Chadbourn Memorial Hall illustrated. A large and fashionable audience gathered in the hall for the occasion, and spent a most enjoyable evening with the Dames.

In the early part of the evening a magnificent programme of music, etc., was presented. The programme opened with a vocal selection from the grand opera "Carmen," by Miss Marion R. Ratliffe, followed by another vocal selection, "Sans Toi," by the same lady. The large audience was most apprec ative in bestowing their applause, as well they might, for Miss Ratliffe possesses a remarkable voice, as one can readily observe after hearing her sing. The audience was so persistent in calling for an encore that Miss Ratliffe was compelled to respond, singing "Good Bye Sweet Day."

Col. A. M. Waddell then, in a few well chosen remarks, introduced Mrs. R. R. Cotten, of Falkland, who read an original poem based on the Indian tradition of the "White Doe" of Roanoke Island. For about sixty minutes Mrs. Cotten, in a peerless and eloquent manner, recited the poem. The first part is a resume of the historic points, etc., of the settlement of Roanoke Island, and of the birth and disappearance of Virginia Dare, while the latter part is an Indian legend. Mrs. Cotten upon concluding was showered with the congratulations of all present.

Next, Miss Osbourn treated the audience to several whistling selections, accompanying herself on the piano. Two enthusiastic encores were demanded of her, which she obligingly granted.

The performance was brought to a close by the singing of several selections by Miss Ratliffe, and she, too, was the recipient of flattering encores, to which she responded.

Mrs. A. M. Waddell, in her usual skillful manner, acted as accompanist.

During the evening a select orchestra, composed of Prof. Jas. Wilson, cornet; Mr. Ed. Munson, piano; Mr. W. A. Martin, flute, and Master Frank St. John, violin, rendered choice and rare music.

The stage in the hall was very tastefully and handsomely decorated with palms, lillies, ferns and cut flowers.

Refreshments, embracing everything nice, were served at the conclusion of the programme by a bevy of pretty maidens.

BAPTIST CONVENTION.

DELEGATES AND VISITORS POURING INTO THE CITY.

Many Distinguished Guests—Important Meetings of Auxiliary Bodies to be Held To-day—Baptist Young People's Union—College Conference—Trustees of the Theological Seminary—Programme.

Delegates and visitors to the Southern Baptist Convention and its adjuncts began to arrive yesterday. Quite a number came on the S. A. L. regular train, arriving here at 12 50, and others came over the W., C. & A. road, arriving here at 2 45.

The number of arrivals at 5 45 p. m. was still larger. At 6 55 p. m. the S. A. L. special from points North came in with about one hundred and fifty delegates and visitors. It had on board delegations from Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia and points between Hamlet and Portsmouth. At 11 30 another "Baptist special" arrived over the S. A. L. with 1,40 delegates from the South and Southwest. There are probably 600 delegates and visitors in the city this morning, and there will be two or three times as many by to-morrow morning.

There are several important bodies to meet to-day.

"The Study of History in Colleges"—Chaplain J. William Jones, D. D., Miller School, Va.; President F. L. Riley, A. M., Ph. D., Hillman College, Miss.

TRUSTEES' MEETING.

The trustees of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary of Louisville, Ky., will meet in annual session at 10 a. m. in the lecture room of Grace M. E. church. The president of the board is Hon. Joshua Levering, of Baltimore. Rev. Wm. H. Whitsitt, D. D., LL. D., of Louisville, Ky., is the President of the Seminary.

EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY.

The American Baptist Educational Society will not hold a meeting in connection with the Convention. Editor J. W. Bailey of the Biblical Recorder received a telegram yesterday from Rev. W. C. Bitting, of New York, stating that it would not be practicable for the Society to hold a meeting.

ITEMS OF INFORMATION.

The American Baptist Publication Society has its headquarters in the Sunday School room.

Southern Baptist College Conference meets at 9 o'clock this morning at Grace M. E. Church.

—The pastor's study has been reserved exclusively for the use of the secretaries of the Convention. The lecture room, the infant class room and the rooms on both sides of the pulpit and organ loft will be for the use of committees. The library room has been converted into a sub-station of the Wilmington postoffice and is in charge of Mr. Lonnie Southerland.

Social rooms, reading room and telephone service of the convention are at the W. L. I. armory, just west of the church.

Information bureaus have been established at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, the Chamber of Commerce rooms and the W. L. I. armory.

The headquarters of the officers of the convention are at The Orton.

CONVENTION PERSONALS.

— Rev. B. W. Spilman, of Raleigh, is here.

— J. C. Russell, the noted Texas Evangelist arrived yesterday.

— Rev. G. W. Griffin, of Newbern, is a delegate to the Convention.

— Rev. Carter Helm Jones, a rising young preacher of Louisville, Ky., is here.

— Dr. R. H. Marsh, President of the Baptist State Convention, is among the visitors.

— Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Whitsett, President of the Theological Seminary, arrived yesterday.

— Rev. Dr. Lansing Burrows, one of the secretaries of the Convention, arrived last night.

— Rev. Dr. W. A. Nelson, of Macon, Ga., a delegate to the Convention, has been holding evangelistic services at Newbern.

— Rev. Carter Helm Jones, a brilliant young minister, of Louisville, Ky., will address the Baptist Young People's Union to-day.

— Rev. Dr. C. E. Taylor, president of Wake Forest College, is one of the prominent educators in attendance upon the convention.

Rev. C. E. Norton and son, of Georgia, are attending the Southern Baptist Convention and are the guests of Mr. Jno. R. Marshall.

— Dr. J. H. Boyd, of Lexington, Ky., and Rev. M. B. Adams, of Mayesville, Ky., arrived in the city yesterday to attend the Convention.

—Rev. I. T. Tichenor, Corresponding Secretary of the Home Mission Board with headquarters at Atlanta, is among the distinguished visitors.

— Mrs. A. M. Gwathmey, president of the Woman's Central Baptist Committee of Virginia, is here, a guest of Mrs. J. Arthur Springer.

— Rev. John E. White, Secretary of the North Carolina State Foreign Mission Board, bears a striking resemblance to William Jennings Bryan.

— Miss Fannie E. S. Heck, President of the Woman's Missionary Union, and Miss Annie W. Armstrong, Corresponding Secretary, arrived last evening.

— Rev. Howard L. Jones and wife, of Childsburg, Ky., arrived in the city last evening. Mr. Jones will represent the Richmond Times during the Convention.

— Rev. J. J. Hall, D. D., of Norfolk, Va., is the guest of Mr. J. W. St. John, 508 Market street. Rev. Mr. Hall is well known to the Odd Fellows of the city.

— Rev. Thos. Hume, D. D., Professor of English Language and Literature at the North Carolina State University, will make an address before the College Conference this afternoon.

— Dr. Thos. S. Dunaway, of Fredericksburg, Va., who has been pastor of the Baptist church there for thirty years, is a guest of Rev. Dr. Carmichael. He is President of the General Association of Virginia.

— Dr. A. E. Dickson, President, and Rev. R. H. Pitt, Secretary and Treasurer of the Religious Herald Co., of Richmond, are here attending the convention. Mr. Pitt visited the STAR office last night.

— Rev. Jas. B. Taylor, D. D., a former pastor of the First Baptist church, and who was greatly beloved by his congregation and our people generally, is among the delegates. It may be mentioned here that the last dollar of the indebtedness of the church was paid during his pastorate, and next Sunday is the anniversary of that happy occasion.

— The editor of the STAR had the pleasure of meeting last night Rev. Wm. E. Hatcher, D. D., and Rev. Dr. Chas. H. Ryland, both of Richmond, and both our former college-mates, neither of whom we had seen for forty years. There are a number of other delegates here with whom we had similar associations in boyhood, all of whom we hope to meet.

The Projectoscope Last Night.

The Edison Projectoscope Company opened their engagement at the Opera House last night to a fair sized audience. Those who were so fortunate as to be on hand last evening will no doubt agree that the performance was truly wonderful, and as a mode of education, as well as entertainment, is unexcelled. The Edison Company produced among their many pictures last night an exact reproduction of the celebrated "Sound Money Parade," which took place in New York last fall; "The Chicago and Buffalo Express," on the New York Central railroad, showing the celebrated train arriving at the station of Geneva, N. Y., and its departure from there; the celebrated "Battery A, Light Artillery, U. S. A." on Pennsylvania avenue, inauguration day, and the "Westminster Bridge," London.

This company's engagement will continue, with two performances daily, during the Southern Baptist Convention. Ladies' and children's matinee daily at 3 o'clock, and at night at 8 15.

One Cent a Word.

Hereafter advertisements to go in our "Business Locals" department will be charged one cent per word for each insertion; but no advertisement, however short, will be taken for less than 20 cents

This is a reduction from former rates and it is also a convenience to advertisers who can calculate the exact cost of their advertisements, which must be paid for always in advance.

RALEIGH HAPPENINGS.

NEW BOARD OF ALDERMEN TAKE CHARGE OF CITY GOVERNMENT.

Major Hays Appointed Commissioner to Tennessee Centennial—Commencement of Shaw University—Accident to a S. A. L. Conductor.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C., May 5.

The convention of the Episcopal Church in this diocese will assemble here next Wednesday at the Church of the Good Shepherd in this city. A large attendance is expected. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew also meets during the convention.

The Governor to-day appointed Maj. E. M. Hays, U. S. A., a commissioner to the Tennessee Centennial.

The new Board of Aldermen met at noon to-day and formally took charge of the city government. Later in the week a subsequent meeting will be held when a re-election of officers will occur. Chief of Police Heartt, who has held the position for seventeen years with great acceptability, seems to be in danger of losing his position. There is no more popular official in the city than Captain Heartt, and his friends had not expected that the Board would turn him down.

The Board of Directors of the Insane Asylum do not meet until later in the day. It is very likely that Mr. William Crawford, the present efficient steward, will be retained. Mr. Crawford is a Democrat.

The commencement exercises of Shaw University commence May 9th. Dr. Whiteman, the President of the Columbian University at Washington, D. C., delivers the principal address.

Judge Whitaker, who suffered a partial paralytic stroke, is improving.

Editor Bailey, of the Biblical Recorder, and other local Baptists, left for Wilmington to-day. There will be a large delegation to go to-morrow.

Hon. Clem. Manly is in the city.

Mr. Dave Jones, a Seaboard conductor, had the misfortune to have his leg broken at Cary, near here, last night.

[Special Star Telegram.]

Governor Russell appointed this evening J. Rowan Rogers, Jesse G. Ball and Jas. Q. Williams, of Raleigh, directors of the Central Insane Asylum here. The new directors met with the board this evening, there being no objection. The appointments are for six years. J. D. Biggs, Democrat, was elected chairman of the board. Dr. George Robinson, of Smithfield, was elected first assistant physician. Dr. Robinson is a brother to Judge Robinson, and a Republican. No other elections were had, and the board adjourned until July.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

Mayor Harriss' Board in Session—S. H. Fishblate Elected Alderman from the Third Ward—Resolution Concerning City Offices Adopted.

A meeting of the Board of Aldermen was held yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock. Mr. S. H. Fishblate was unanimously elected alderman from the Third ward to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Jno. F. Maunder. In reference to this election, a member of the Board said to a STAR reporter: "The Board could not, in justice to all concerned, elect the candidate of the party who now is a party to a suit against this Board, and Mr. Fishblate being the candidate who received the next highest vote at the primary, the Board thought that he was justly entitled to the office."

The following resolution was offered and unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Superior Court of New Hanover county has declared the law under which Dr. S. P. Wright and his Board of Aldermen hold the city offices unconstitutional and void, and that this Board are of right entitled to said offices; and,

Whereas, by a recent statute, an appeal to the Supreme Court does not vacate the judgment of a lower court, but such judgment stands until reversed; and,

Whereas, this Board has been advised by counsel that there is very grave doubt whether Dr. S. P. Wright and his Board of Aldermen are even de facto officers and entitled to administer the affairs of the city government; therefore be it

Resolved, That all persons are hereby notified that contracts made with, or payments made Dr. S. P. Wright and the officers elected by his Board of Aldermen, are invalid, and made at the risk of the persons so contracting or paying.

Other routine business was transacted, but not for publication.

Reception to the Woman's Missionary Union.

The reception to be given the Woman's Missionary Union at the Y. M. C. A. rooms to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock will be a highly enjoyable occasion. The Committee of Arrangements is constituted as follows: Mrs. S. H. Burtt (chairman), Mrs. Fred E. Owen, Mrs. C. L. Haywood, Mrs. L. L. Pritchard, Mrs. G. E. Leftwich, Mrs. W. P. Oldham, Jr., and Miss Lizzie F. Larkins. The members of the Committee on Introductions are requested to be present at the rooms promptly at 4 o'clock.

— A Press dispatch to the STAR says the nomination of T. R. Purnell to be U. S. District Court Judge was yesterday confirmed by the Senate.

BY WILLIAM H. BERNARD.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

THURSDAY MORNING, MAY 6, 1897

THE BAPTIST CONVENTION.

The Southern Baptist convention, delegates to which, laymen and clergy, from fourteen States are now assembling in this city, is no ordinary event, and would be no ordinary event in great cities where great events are of frequent occurrence. This convention represents the largest church organization in the South and embraces within it some of the best intellects of living Americans. There are some whose hairs have silvered or whitened in the service of the Master, whose names have spread beyond the continent, and others not so long in the service but highly gifted and devotedly zealous, masters of the oratory which captivates and the logic that convinces. Bright men, able men, brilliant men, deep, scholarly men are here, men that any denomination, any section or any country might be justly proud to call its own.

With these are writers of books and gifted editors, who through their books, papers and other periodicals expound the doctrines of their denomination, defend them when assailed, and carry on from day to day the work of education so essential to the best development and to the success of any great church or other organization. There are also, though not of the clergy but with them in spirit, men eminent in other walks of life who have left their impress for good on the generation in which they live. Of such will be composed this large convention, of a large and mighty denomination of Christian workers.

An interesting feature in connection with it is the Baptist Young People's Union, from which the ministers and evangels of the future will come to take the places of the veterans of the Cross when they are called from labor to refreshment and their places become vacant. Thus the succession is continued unbroken and the young army of Christian workers is being thoughtfully trained to take their places later in the ranks of the Church Militant to take up and carry on the work where their seniors laid it down when called to their reward, in the ranks of the Church Triumphant.

Another interesting feature is the Baptist Women's Missionary Union, these mothers and daughters of the Church, whose precept and example have done so much for the growth and glory of the Church to which they have devoted their pious efforts.

Here, then, we have as representative of their denomination the strong and mentally stalwart fathers of the Church, the exemplary and trustingly working mothers of the Church, with the sons and daughters of the Church, making, if we may so express it, the Church family complete.

Such is the great and honored body which is now assembling within our gates, where they are welcomed with a cordial welcome, where they are greeted with a cordial greeting from warm hearts and kindred spirits of their own and other denominations who wish them God speed in the noble life work to which they have been called.

While the people of this city will reap the benefit of the Christian intercourse thus conferred upon them, and be edified by the discourses they may have an opportunity to listen to, we feel sure also that our visitors will enjoy the mingling with them, and carry to their homes, when they leave us, pleasant memories of a city which while not pretentious has a reputation for warmhearted hospitality which has never failed to make a visit a pleasant memory to those who become her guests, and these who are now within her portals are guests that she will delight to entertain and honor and feel herself honored in having that privilege.

The ocean that, but a few miles distant, in grandeur rolls, is not more grand; the blue sky that bends in azure beauty above us is not more beautiful; the genial sun that paints and tints the flowers that bloom is not more genial than this Christian fellowship of the sons and daughters of God, whatever be their denomination, when assembled in His name and doing His work. As such we greet and mingle with these Christian workers, and as such Wilmington welcomes them within her gates and to her homes.

THE DEAR WORKMEN.

One of the pretences in justification of the protective tariff is to protect the American workman from the competition of the "pauper labor" of Europe. The American workman is dear to the gentlemen who hanker for a high tariff. Senator Elkins, of West Virginia, is one of the high tariffites, but the American workman seems to be too dear for him. In a recent interview with Gath, the well known newspaper correspondent, he is quoted as saying:

"Wages must come down. The railroads get one cent for hauling a ton of coal five miles, for one hundred miles twenty cents, less than coal shovelers get for putting a ton of coal into your chute from the cart. Wages in America stand against any revival of business."

"Wages must come down." Well the fellows who discourse so persistently and loudly about keeping them up when they want some more "protection" generally manage to get them down when they get the protection they are howling for, or come to the conclusion they can't get it.

It may be observed in this connection that Senator Elkins is a large owner of coal mining property in West Virginia and is largely interested in the mining of coal. He wants an increase of forty cents a ton on the coal he mines, ostensibly for the benefit of the miners who dig out the coal, for that is the way they put it, but this doesn't seem to be strictly the case with Senator Elkins, for he says the miners are too well paid now. In the face of this statement investigations by State authorities in the coal mining regions of Pennsylvania and Illinois show a deplorable state of affairs among the miners employed in those mines; show that many of them do not receive wages enough to purchase as much of the necessaries, much less the comforts of life as they should have, and that many more are in a condition bordering on starvation. If West Virginia is such a bonanza for the miner, it is surprising that some of these poorly paid, half-starved Pennsylvania miners do not rush down there and fill up and get fat.

We would commend the candor of Senator Elkins, if he were really honest about it, but he will make the alleged high wages of workmen in the West Virginia mines a pretext for demanding more protection that he and his associates in mining may have a better chance to fleece the consumers of their coals.

MINOR MENTION.

There has been a great howl raised for protection to wool, it being asserted that the wool-growing industry was ruined by putting wool on the free list. Hides have been on the free list for about twenty-five years, and the discovery has just been made that this is ruining the cattle-growing industry. The fact is that the importations of both have increased as the population of the country increased and the demand for both consequently became greater. The following figures show the increase and show at the same time as far as wool is concerned the increase of importations under the Wilson tariff, which made wool free, does not justify the assertion that this has been ruinous to wool growing in this country:

| Fiscal year. | Hides. Value. | Wood Value. |
|---|---|---|
| 1890 | $21,881,886 | $15,364,088 |
| 1891 | 27,930,756 | 18,331,372 |
| 1893 | 26,658,133 | 19,688,108 |
| 1893 | 27,030,775 | 21,064,189 |
| 1894 | 15,888,888 | 6,107,438 |
| 1895 | 26,873,489 | 25,556,431 |
| 1896 | 30,530,177 | 32,451,343 |
| Totals | $176,723,107 | $138,363,844 |

Take the four years of the McKinley tariff, when wool was protected, and the three years of the Wilson tariff, when it was on the free list, and the average excess of importations under the latter is but a little over $2,000,000, and it must be remembered the bulk of the wool imported is of coarse quality, which is not and cannot be profitably grown in this country.

* * *

We said something yesterday about the success of the Riverside Cotton Mills at Danville, Va., as an object lesson as to what may be done in cotton manufacturing in the South. Here is another object lesson of a different kind, which we clip from the Philadelphia Record:

"Boston capitalists are building a cotton mill at Indian Head, Alabama, which will cost $600,000 and have a capacity of 35,000 spindles. There is a coal mine within fifty feet of the engine room. Cotton is grown in sight. Labor is cheap and contented.'

A coal mine within fifty feet of the engine room. This means fuel at a nominal cost, and an inexhaustible supply of it. Cotton grown at the doors. This means an inexhaustible supply of cotton, at the lowest market price, not subjected to detriment by long transportation. Here are two factors of success which will give these mills advantages that the Boston capitalists comprehend and that every one else must readily see. With such advantages, with reasonably good management, why should these mills not be able to undersell mills remote from the coal mines and cotton fields, however well they may be managed? There are some things that may be offset by strong organization, but not such as these.

BOOK NOTICES.

Among other interesting matter in The Outlook for May 1, is "The Story of Gladstone's Life" (continued) and "The Higher Life of Paris," with sketches of scenes and of eminent men. This number is handsomely illustrated. Published by The Outlook Company, 13 Astor Place, New York.

The North American Review for May presents a fine list of contents on topics, political, economic and social, in which the people of this country are interested. Ian Maclaren is a contributor to this number with a story entitled "Henry Drummond." Address North American Review, No. 291 Fifth avenue, New York.

The May number of The Ladies' Home Journal is an exceedingly interesting one, and as handsome as it is interesting. Nearly every page is illustrated, and beautifully, too. The reading matter is abundant and varied, while the ladies will find the departments for their special benefit both interesting and valuable. Published by the Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia.

McClure's Magazine for May is an excellent number, beautifully illustrated and filled with interesting reading matter. Among other papers of special interests is one entitled "The Capture, Death and Burial of J. Wilkes Booth." This is interesting, in view of the fact that some contend that Booth is still alive. Published by the S. S. McClure Company, 141-155 East Twenty-fifth street, New York.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— Perhaps Greece will not be in so much of a hurry to form a republic when she peruses Mr. Cleveland's opinion of this one.—Washington Post, Ind.

—— Col. Cirujeda, who has just been sent back to Spain in disgrace, is taking it out on Capt. Gen. Weyler, and is charging his own overthrow to jealousy on account of the praise he received for having killed Gen. Macceo. If the Cubans only knew how badly the rascals had fallen out they might pitch in and get their dues.—Savannah News, Dem.

—— It seems strange that the Spanish authorities will persist in deceiving themselves in reference to the pacification of the insurgent Cubans. In the very provinces which Weyler claims to have pacified there are daily fights. Why the Queen of Spain should put herself to the trouble to sign an autonomy agreement at a time when there are no inhabitants not under arms, save in the towns in any of the Cuban provinces, is something that seems to be only understood by the Spaniards themselves.—Richmond State, Dem.

—— The Supreme Court has decided that bonded goods when withdrawn from bond must pay the rate of duty in force at the time when the goods were imported. A consignment of steel rails imported in 1887, when the duty was $18.70 per ton, withdrawn from bond in 1895, was held to be liable for duty at the rate payable in 1887, though in the meantime the rate of duty had been twice reducted by successive acts of Congress. This decision would seem to be conclusive as against retroactive legislation. The duty of $18.70 per ton was almost or quite confiscatory.—Philadelphia Record Dem.

TWINKLINGS.

— Fond Mamma—Have you eaten all you want to, Bobby?

Bobby—No; but I guess I've eaten all I can hold.—New York Journal.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE.

— Charlotte News: The cotton crop along the road from Charlotte to Columbia looks exceedingly well. The rains at the past few days have been of much benefit. Farmers say the stand is splendid and very regular.

— Salisbury World: Revenue officers Smith and McMillan, of Greensboro, captured a blockade still about six miles from Albemarle Saturday night. The identity of the owner is a puzzler to the officers. Nothing except the still was to be found.

— Carthage Blade: Mr. Petty will have a corps of surveyors here this week to locate the extension of his road from here to Island Ford. He expects to begin grading just as soon as possible, and will follow the grading closely with track laying. This new road will open up a good timber section, go into the brownstone field and make valuable and accessible the splendid water power at Island Ford and other points on Deep River.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Repine, editor, Tiskilwa, Ill., "Chief," says: 'We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home, as in it we have a certain and sure cure for Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at R. R. BELLAMY'S Drug Store. †

WHY FOOD IS COOKED.

A Summary of the Reasons From Several Points of View.

We cook our food to render it more agreeable to our sense of taste and smell. Cooking develops flavors and odors not present in the raw state. This is particularly true of the animal foods, but it is also true to a greater or less extent with regard to vegetable foods, and indeed some vegetables, as potatoes and beans, would be repugnant were they uncooked. The superior flavor, appearance and taste of a piece of beefsteak nicely cooked are a case in point. The development of pleasant flavors in the coffee berry and peanut illustrate the same principle.

A second reason why we should cook our food is to be found in the fact that thereby we facilitate the process of mastification. Some foods are tough or hard and can neither be finely divided nor well mixed with saliva. Cooking softens these so that the work of the teeth is performed with greater ease, and the results, so far as the digestibility and the amount of nutriment matter obtained are concerned, are vastly more efficient.

Again it is often desirable that the food be chemically changed. Thus some foods or portions of them are absolutely indigestible in the uncooked state. The fibrous tissue of meat, for example, cannot be considered a food until by the application of heat it has been changed chemically to gelatin. Similarly starches, though not entirely indigestible when raw, are changed into a more digestible form by cooking, and the cooked starch, as in bread, is by the process of toasting converted into a new chemical substance called dextrin, which closely resembles sugar both in its chemical properties and in the ease with which it is digested. Again sugar is changed into caramel, and fats are partially decomposed into other more digestible substances.

A fourth reason for cooking food is that the warmth which is thus imparted promotes digestion by causing an increased flow of blood to the digestive apparatus, and hence a more copious secretion of the digestive fluids. It is to stimulate the flow of digestive juices that hot soup is given as the first course at dinner. As a result of this increased flow the digestion of the food is well advanced by the time dinner is over. The general stimulating effect of tea and coffee is enenhanced considerably by their warmth.

The general result of all these changes mentioned—the development of flavor, the increased ease of mastication, the chemical changes and the warmth imparted by cooking—is that more nutrient matter is obtained from the food at the same time that its digestion is promoted.

Finally cooking destroys any parasites that may be present in the food. Of these trichinæ in pork and the scolex, or encysted head of the tapeworm, in what is known as measly beef, are the most common. To show that these are not so rare, I may mention that between 2 and 3 per cent of all the hogs slaughtered at the Chicago stockyards are found to be infected with trichinæ. Most food materials serve as favorable media for the propagation and growth of bacteria. Many of these are harmless, but we must remember that we cannot be sure at any time that no dangerous ones are present. As heat destroys bacteria, we are taking fewer chances when we cook our food than when we do not.—Chautauquan.

Feebleness of Savage Man.

Here in South Africa the native races seem to have made no progress for centuries, if indeed they have not actually gone backward, and the feebleness of savage man intensifies one's sense of the overmastering strength of nature. The elephant and the rhinoceros and the giraffe are as much the masters of the soil as is the Kaffir, and man has no more right to claim that the land was made for him than have the wild beasts of the forest who roar after their prey and seek their meat from God.—Professor James Bryce, M. P., in Century.

Brooklyn Bridge.

Brooklyn bridge was commenced, under the direction of Mr. Roebling, the designer of the Niagara suspension bridge, in 1870, and completed in 13 years. It is 5,989 feet long and 135 feet high. The cost of building was little less than $15,000,000.

Nicholas Saunderson, the blind professor at Cambridge, was almost preternaturally gifted in the sense of touch. By this faculty alone he could distinguish counterfeit from genuine metals and money, and could tell, by the grain, of what wood a table was made.

Will Not Perform Miracles But It Will Cure.

DR. MILES' RESTORATIVE NERVINE cures nervous prostration. Not miraculously, but scientifically, by first removing the germs of disease, and then supplying healthy nerve food, increasing the appetite, helping digestion and strengthening the entire system. Desperate cases require prolonged treatment as shown by that of Mrs. M. B. Reed, of Delta, Iowa, who writes: "As the result of a lightning stroke, the physicians said I had a light stroke of paralysis, my limbs would all draw up. I would have throbbings in my chest that seemed unendurable. For three months I could not sleep and for three weeks did not close my eyes. I prayed for sleep, and felt that if relief did not come I would be dead or insane. I took Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and the second night slept two hours and from that time on my health improved; slowly at first, but steadily and surely. I took in all 40 bottles, and I cannot express how grateful I am, for I am now perfectly well, and have taken no medicine for over four months." Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold by druggists on guarantee that first bottle benefits or money refunded.

TOO MUCH FRUIT.

I had never seen one before. It was extremely decorative, and I admired it very much. Its colors were those of the robes of Blum's little samsen player on the wall.

"Why don't you eat it?" asked Polly.

The idea of internally absorbing the beautiful had a strange charm. It was a very large persimmon, but I ate it all, and then I went to bed.

From a ceiling that crawled and crinkled I watched a cherry colored mandarin swing slowly down on to my bed. From the spot from which he dropped came another and another, all no longer than a pea pod and as dry. Solemnly they squatted on my chest and lifted their hairy arms, in which were twisted rods with carven, grinning faces.

Crash! They broke into a shrill, discordant song, beating, beating, beating on my ribs. One, near the apex of my heart, would not keep time, and that was worse than all. How the blows hurt, and how their curled up knees sank deep into my flesh! The words of the song seemed to leap forth like little cubes and hop over my skin, burning as they rolled. The pain was unendurable. I drew a great gasp of agony and was free. They were gone.

A long vista of grayness resolved itself into a strange perspective. I was seated in a fragile jinrikisha, but instead of the lusty runner, blue skirted and bandy legged, between the shafts was a monstrous horse, tall to heaven, with stridings that devoured the road. A voice, warning, portentous, sounded in my ears:

"Be thou careful, O careless one, for thou hast that in charge that is precious."

I looked down, and beside me crouched a bit of a brown baby, naked and unafraid, whose knob of hair, tied in a tiny brush, painted hieroglyphics in the air with every leap of the lurching vehicle.

By some swift intuition I knew that this prancing, gigantic horse was the pride of the mikado's stables and the brown baby the hope of the empire, and that accident to either meant a punishment to fit the crime. I looked ahead. The white slopes of Fusiyama, the sacred mountain, lay before us, up which none may pass alive.

On either side our way impenetrable pines, in whose dark branches goblins sat and grimaced horribly. On we rushed. The great fore feet of the horse struck the slope of the forbidden hill. A sudden shock ran through all his body. I stood alone in the road. On the side, his blood dyeing the sandy sod, lay the horse, a deep hole in his quivering side, while in my arms the child lay leaden, gasping.

Crowds of other people gathered about us and looked upon me ominously, silently.

"Kill this wretched creature in mercy," I begged. They stood unmoved, silent, still, while the horse gazed at me in more than human anguish. Clasping the child, I hurried away, falling, stumbling, crying aloud for help in vain.

Suddenly I stood in a vast room. All about its sides were ladders of bamboo, fragile and hung by slender threads. In the corners, overhead and swinging corpse-like, were bundles, shapeless, unspeakable. The air was filled with a sickening odor, as of mingled decay and strange spices, pungent and sweet. Slowly the swinging bundles took form, and beneath appeared the outline of a body in a dim and bewildering individuality, ludicrous and horrible.

Again a voice cried—a voice of authority not to be gainsaid—"Search!" Again I knew that somewhere in this formless immensity the little brown baby was hid, still alive, and could I but find him ere too late I might save our souls alive from I know not what. Instantly he was no longer the heir of the house of San, but mine, my own, that had lived and loved and lain on my breast, and whose life I would die a million deaths to save, whose agony I would brave the gods to assuage.

How I tossed the dreadful bundles about! How I tore them open ruthlessly, only to see a sunken eye or gaping mouth! How I clung to the spiderlike ladders and leaped across chasmlike spaces. At last, among a heap of squalid rags, in a corner where snakes writhed and ran, a little foot peeped out. It moved. It was warm. I tore away the clothes as a dog tears at the earth that covers his quarry and snatched the child to my heart. On his bare breast gaped a wide wound, its edges already purple and receding, and as I looked I saw the fatal flush spread up and up. Water! Oh, if there were only water! I saw a dull pool at my feet, and, stooping, dashed the icy drops upon the wound. In vain. One chance remained—to call back the fleeing soul by name in desperate entreaty. Surely my baby would listen.

The word died on my lips, for the child on my heart changed again as I would have spoken, and what knew I of the name of the mikado's heir? Let me think. I must think. Did not some one of that cruel crowd that stared and grinned speak it? I strive; I groan; I cry aloud. The heavy air sends back my cries hollowly, and as I choke into silence I see the lids flutter and fall. The hope of the empire has gone all too soon to the sacred shades of Fusiyama, and I, I alone, must answer.

Alone in the silence and darkness of a cell. I could put out my hand and feel that the wall was made of some rough woven grass, about which clung a penetrating odor. In this grass I could hear the movement of millions of minute insects, I knew not of what detested shape and kind. I began to pass my hands over these walls in I know not what barren hope of escape. Carefully I crept on and on, measuring, comparing, testing. Then I went back and began again. My hands kept slipping off strangely into space. The cell had no shape—simply dimension.

Alas! I was no simple onlooker at some splendid revel of primeval nature. All that was in this stupendous scheme was me, sentient, suffering soul.

The helpless, tortured ego was a part of the whole. It froze on those cold, piercing peaks, baked on those plains of arid sand, was tossed in that human sea, was blown on those tempestuous winds. All this I was, all this I inflicted, all this I bore for a forever.

Then the end came. About me, in me, of me, there was only light, a light that grew and blazed and turned white and grew again till the eyes of both body and spirit sank in it and were submerged. Out of the light in its very glowing heart showed a point more intolerably light. Nearer and nearer it came, in shape now like a live flame, darting forward snake-like. Each instant it threatened to touch my staring eyeballs. At last one fiery tongue leaped farther. The spell that bound me seemed loosed. With a mad cry of terror I put up my hands to brush away these horrors and found them clasped in another's—warm, soft, human. It was Polly—possible, provoking Polly.

"Whatever is the matter?"

"Polly," I answered soberly, "don't joke. I've been the conscious universe."

"Pooh!" said Polly. "It was just unconscious persimmon!"—Exchange.

A Woman's Purse.

Mrs. Levi P. Morton says: "A woman's purse is a woman's pride. She dotes upon it, and insists that it shall always be absolutely correct. When the fashion changes, her purse must change. A woman's purse is indicative of a woman's taste. She who is dainty carries a dainty purse, but she who is powerful and strong and a leader carries a big purse that is, like her brain, a storehouse for many things. The practice does create trouble now and then. But the cases are really rare. And a disturbance is only aroused when the woman loses her head as well as her purse."

Sarcastic.

"What does it remind you of when these homely Muglet girls wash their faces?"

"I don't know. What?"

"Irrigation of the plain."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria is the Children's Panacea —the Mother's Friend.

Castoria destroys worms, allays feverishness, cures diarrhœa and wind colic, relieves teething troubles, and cures constipation. Castoria contains no paregoric, morphine, or opium in any form.

"For several years I have recommended Castoria, and shall always continue to do so as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D.,
125th Street and 7th Avenue,
New York City.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford Str., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"The use of Castoria is so universal and its merits so well known that it seems a work of supererogation to endorse it. Few are the intelligent families who do not keep Castoria within easy reach."
CARLOS MARTYN, D. D.,
New York City.

The Best 1897 MODEL

BICYCLE.

Your Choice of Any of the Highest Grade $100 00 Bicycles, 1897 Model, Free of Cost by Using Some of Your Spare Moments.

The great strides made by THE NEW YORK TIMES within the last few months form a notable chapter in American journalism. During a period of general business depression THE NEW YORK TIMES has made steady progress, having within six months nearly doubled its circulation. This growth, while indeed gratifying, serves only to stimulate the management to greater efforts. With a view to the introduction of THE NEW YORK TIMES in homes where it is not now received, where the improvement that has been made may not be known, a plan has been devised to reward those who may assist in the work of increasing its circulation by offering to any man, woman, or child any one of the standard high-grade one hundred-dollar Bicycles, 1897 model, if they will secure one hundred (100) new subscribers for THE NEW YORK TIMES each for three months—$3 if delivered by carrier $1.50 if sent by mail. That no effort to increase the circulation of THE NEW YORK TIMES may go unrewarded to those who find they cannot secure more than fifty subscribers for three months each, the choice will be given of any fifty-dollar (retail price) bicycle, American manufacture, and to those who in their efforts fall short of fifty subscribers there will be paid 50 cents in cash for every subscriber less than fifty.

Remember you can have your Choice of any Bicycle of American Manufacture.

THE OFFER IN DETAIL.

Any person desiring to undertake the work of securing 100 subscribers should notify THE NEW YORK TIMES, and full instructions and blanks will be furnished. Under no circumstances will a subscription be accepted as making up the number required of any person who has been a regular reader of THE NEW YORK TIMES since Jan. 1, 1897. All lists will be given credit for, as stated, and if it is found they include the name of any person who has recently been a regular reader, that subscription will not be accepted to make up the list of 100.

It is distinctly understood that all lists of names are subject to verification. All copies of THE NEW YORK TIMES ordered under this plan must be delivered where THE TIMES has not heretofore been received. The offer is intended solely for new subscriptions, and orders from present regular readers of THE NEW YORK TIMES will, under no circumstances, be accepted in making up the required number.

Orders for the delivery of two copies to the same address will not be accepted as two new subscribers. The purpose of THE TIMES is to obtain a wider distribution of its issues in homes where it has not heretofore been delivered.

PLAN OF WORK.

Make up a list of your relatives, friends and acquaintances, only those to whom you are well known. Give their full name and Post Office addresses. When you have the number, write or send to THE NEW YORK TIMES office for that number of letter circulars and subscription blanks. Address and sign the letter circulars inclosing addressed envelope for reply, (THE NEW YORK TIMES will supply them) Send the signed and addressed letter circulars to THE NEW YORK TIMES, and they will be mailed without cost to you; if you mail them yourself you must affix to each letter a two-cent stamp. By this means you may, without calling in person on your friends, earn your choice of any one-hundred-dollar bicycle.

It is necessary, of course, in order to successfully participate in this work, to have an adequate conception of what kind of a newspaper THE NEW YORK TIMES is. If you are not a reader of THE TIMES, secure a copy, read it carefully, and thus become acquainted with its merits. You will see that THE NEW YORK TIMES is a decent, dignified, enterprising, first-class newspaper. It has always maintained a high standard; it has always stood for what is best in the community; it is not sensational; perpetrates no fakes, and is free of "freaks;" it presents what occurs promptly, fully, and in a manner to interest intelligent men and women. To be seen reading THE NEW YORK TIMES is a stamp of culture and respectability. The story is told of a young man who, when applying for a situation, and asked for references by his prospective employer, answered simply, "I read THE NEW YORK TIMES." He was accepted in on employment at once on the theory that reading a newspaper of the quality of THE NEW YORK TIMES is a certificate of good character.

A FEW FACTS.

A large part of the population of Greater New York consists of men and women of culture and education who scrupulously exclude from their homes sensational newspapers. They want a pure, wholesome newspaper, which, while progressive and entertaining does not defile its pages by repulsive details of scandals and horrible accounts of crime. There is a growing revolt against those newspapers which pander to the depraved, and which inflame the minds of the weak-minded and unthinking by overdrawn tales of vice and immorality. The best men in the community are calling built on this vicious tendency, and THE NEW YORK TIMES is daily pointed to as an example of what a self-respecting, modern newspaper should be. Secure a copy of the Saturday edition and observe the Supplement, devoted to a review of books and art. Show this to your friends who are readers of the best literature, and they will be interested at once in the attractive contents of this feature. The illustrated Magazine Supplement which accompanies the Sunday edition is a gem of art and literature. It compares favorably with the best ten-cent magazines. A knowledge of these facts will enable you to properly present the merits of THE NEW YORK TIMES to prospective subscribers.

Things worth having are not easily obtained. It requires earnest effort and untiring persistence to secure 100 subscribers and you may find for the first day or two that the effort is not so easy as you may imagine, but perseverance will surely bring success.

If you desire additional information, write to THE TIMES. All questions will be cheerfully answered. This is a rare opportunity to secure your choice of any of the best one-hundred-dollar bicycles. Sample copies of THE TIMES sent free upon application. Address

A FLORAL LOVE STORY.

Fair Marigold a maiden was. Sweet Williams was her lover.
Their path was twined with Bittersweet; it did not run through Clover.
The Ladies' Tresses raven were, her cheeks a lovely Rose.
She wore fine Lady's Slippers to warm her small Pink toes.
Her Poppy was an Elder who had a Mint of gold,
An awful old Snapdragon to make one's blood run cold.
His temper was like Sour Grass. His daughter's heart he wrung
With words both fierce and bitter—he had an Adder's Tongue.
The lover's hair was like the Flax of pure Germanic type.
He wore a Dutchman's Breeches; he smoked a Dutchman's Pipe;
He sent Marshmallows by the pound and choicest Wintergreen.
She painted him Forgetmenots, the bluest ever seen.
He couldn't serenade her within the Nightshade dark,
For every Thyme he tried it her father's Dogwood bark.
And so he set a certain day to meet at Four o'Clock.
Her face was pale as Snowdrops, e'en whiter than her frock.
The lover vowed he'd Pine and die if she should say him no,
And then he up and kissed her beneath the Mistletoe.
"My love will Live Forever. My sweet, will you be true?
Give me a little Heartsease; say only, 'I love Yew.'"
She faltered that for him alone she'd Orange Blossoms wear,
Then swayed like supple Willow and tore her Maidenhair,
For Maiden Ihan a hornet before them stood her Pop,
Who swore he'd Cane the fellow until he made him Hop.
Oh, quickly up Rosemary. She cried: "You'll Rue the day,
Most cruel father. Haste, my dear, and Lettuce flee away."
But that inhuman parent so plied his Birch rod there
He settled all flirtation between that hapless Pear.
The youth a monastery sought and donned a black Monkshood.
The maid ate Poison Ivy and died within a wood.
—Catherine Y. Glen in Ladies' Home Journal.

THE YELLOW BONNET

A yellow mist of sunshine drenched the hill slopes that faced the south and hung low upon the drowsy valleys.

The undulant luster of the azaleas illumined the banks of the limpid streams like a cloth of gold with a cord of silver running through it, and rich clusters of gaudy golden rod were tasseled along its hem.

The raw places on the half tilled fallows where the wintry torrents had swept were bathed in yellow accentuated by tufts of butter weed of a deeper orange.

It was early morning among the Cohuttahs, and the world was a symphony in yellow.

Riding leisurely along the narrow road that wound through the woodlands, at a turn in the road I saw just ahead one of those quaint old apple wagons whose dingy yellow cover matched the color of the pair of sallow steers that drew it along at a snail's pace, the slumberous vehicle lurching from side to side with the rocks and ruts.

Plodding alongside was a swarthy mountaineer, whose tawny whiskers and broad slouched hat concealed the face which he hastily and furtively turned toward me as my horse blundered over a stone.

Now and then he would give the wheel a lift as it sank in an unusually deep rut or struck a protuberant bowlder, scarred with the marks of wheeled travel.

"Good afternoon," said I, as I checked my horse.

"How d'ye do?" drawled the mountaineer.

"Rather warm traveling."

"Yaas, purty hot, but I'ze used to it."

"Traveling far?"

"'Pends on what luck I have," he answered, eying me askance after the fashion of those people who are rendered suspicious by being hunted down for years and years by revenue officers.

Just then I caught a glimpse of the face of the driver, turned full upon me, and from beneath her exaggerated buff sunbonnet her blue eyes shone with a wondering, speculative look, and her cheeks glowed with the only bit of reddening color in the sallow scene. She appeared to be a girl of 16 or 17, with a fair, healthy face framed in a mass of ruddy hair that matched in iridescent splendor one of her own mountain sunsets. It was Nancy Lee, the maiden moonshiner.

"Are you emigrating?" I asked the man, returning to the subject and attempting to draw him out.

"No," he said shortly, his bronzed face growing dark because of his misapprehension of my query. "I'm from Rabun county, and I've got a load of apples and cabbiges. That's what I'm doin."

"Excuse me," I said hastily. "I did not mean to inquire into your business. I am prospecting through the country and just thought I would pass the time in a chat as we are traveling in the same direction."

"Oh," he replied in a tone of relief, "I didn't know. So many spies and informers now'days. Never can't tell. Bes' to be on a fellow's guard."

"Do you sell many apples?"

"Sometimes we strike a good streak and sell out. Then again we hafter drive thoo to Atlanta and then peddle them out on the streets for nuthin almos', but we manage to come out 'bout even. Don't cost any more to travel than hit do to stay at home. Neighbors don't charge one 'nother nuthin fur a little grub when they git tight run, an there's allers er grassfield handy fur the steers this time a year."

"It is a good long drive to Atlanta."

"Yes, fur a feller that's in a hurry. We take our time and kiver the 200 miles 'thout feelin it. 'Bleeged to do sump'n, ye know. We live 40 miles from the nighest railroad, an the miles is mighty long thoo the Cohuttahs, whar it's up hill all the way thar and back," and a feeble attempt at a smile gave his wrinkled face a grotesque expression.

"Pretty hard to make a living under such circumstances, eh?"

"Yes, purty tough; but, ye see we don't need much. We raise a few cattle in the mountains an our cabbiges an pertaters an our cawn crop—but thar ain't no money in cawn."

"How about making moonshine of it?"

"I don't know a cussed thing 'bout that," he replied, his face darkening again. "Ef ye wanter fin' out anything 'bout blockade, go to them blasted revenoo detecters. They's the ones what does the devilment an packs it off on us pore farmers—dadburn 'em—jist to git ther costs. Every infernal son of a sarpint un 'em orter be hung."

Again the bright eyes of the maiden in front were turned upon me, and a quick movement of her right hand disclosed the gleaming barrel of a winchester rifle concealed under a part of the wagon cover.

"Well, I have nothing to do with that," said I in a conciliating way, "only I believe they ought to leave you alone. It is a small matter for a big government to make such a fuss over."

"Ye're jist cayreot, stranger. It is a mighty small thing. Ef they knowed how hard it is to make a livin in these mountains, they'd be easier on us, and ef they'd 'low us to still our cawn an apples we could put in a few jugs what'd load down a wagon, an we could sell it out quicker an git our money back, but they won't let us alone. Informers is as thick as fiddlers in a bad place. They're meaner by a durned sight than the revenoo fellers. People didn't useter cheep on one 'nuther, but ther's so durned many un 'em gone over to the Yankees now tell ye can't giner'ly tell jist who is an who isn't.

"W'y, when my dady fus come to Geowgy ther wa'n't no revenoo, an a feller could make jist as much licker as he wanted to, an it war good truck, too, an none of your fightin pizen.

"He useter sell it at fo' bits a gallon an made money on it. Now, here I am, hafter haul a load of apples an cabbiges hundreds o' miles over the mountains an don't git pay for the feed o' my steers ef I had ter buy it. I hearn a feller readin in the Derlonegy paper t'other day 'bout them pertection an free trade schemes of the politicians. Them's jist what we fellers needs, an ef I ever cyast another ballit it'll be fur the man what's fur pertection an free trade. Ef the government'll pertect us an give us free trade, we don't care a dod rot fur no outside compytition. We kin read the Declaration of Independence then shore."

"But free trade and protection are different things. They are just opposite."

"That may be so in your neck o' the woods, but we need both in Rabun county, an the man what runs on that ticket'll carry every single vote in my deestrict, an it's a big un, reachin f'om Little Hiawassee to the Tennessee line."

"Is there any mining going on in your section?" I asked to change the subject a little.

"No, sirree; no minin. Most o' the men who owns land in my deestrict have got their land posted. When Jim Rankin war in Atlanta las' fall he seed cyards stuck up in some of the windows o' the groceries what read, 'No minors allowed in here,' an he begged a feller out'n one un 'em, an he kerried it home to Rabun, an his neighbors said it war jist the kink an had some struck off, an most in ginerly now you'll see ther lands posted, 'No minors allowed in here.' It works well, fur we ain't pestered with them now. W'y, one feller had the impydence to cuss President Buchanan fur a Know Nuthin, an we resented it, an Jim Rankin, as cheerman o' the community, give 'im jist till sun up to git out, an he got."

"Why do you object to the miners?"

"Because while they ain't no blockade licker in them regions yit the men Jim Rankin bo'ded with in Atlanta said the reason they put up them cyards war beca'se the miners'd come in there an drink ther licker an then go an cheep on 'em, an they give 'em fa'r wa'nin to stay out. So we wanted to pertect ourselves in case some un accidentally diskivered a drop of blockade, an we don't want no minors nosin roun to play the informer on us"—

"Hold up, you there!" came in ringing command, and two horsemen dashed up from behind with rifles leveled at the mountaineer, and a buggy with two other men followed furiously.

"Stop that wagon!" cried one who appeared to be the leader. "You've got it aboard. You're a good one, Lem Durden, but we've got the evidence this time."

I caught a glimpse of the buff sunbonnet as the wearer disappeared in a hazel thicket by the roadside unobserved by the new arrivals and the gleam of the rifle barrel which she held in her hands as she made good her escape. I knew that there was some mischief afloat, for I had not forgotten Nancy Lee.

With an air of sullen vindictiveness the mountaineer stood aside, while the revenue officers began to rummage about among the apples and cabbages.

"Here, Joe, help me with this keg. It's applejack for a million. Here's a couple of fat jugs of the regular mountain dew. Here's t'other keg. Pretty well heeled, eh, Lemuel? Well, you'll get to Atlanta a good deal quicker than you would with these yaller oxen. Your way will be paid, and you'll get to ride in the first class car, Lemuel. How do you like that, old hoss?"

The mountaineer said never a word, but there was a grim smile on his rugged features that boded no good for the captors.

"Here, Joe," said the chief deputy, "you and Jasper take charge of the wagon. We'll take Lem to Dalton and catch the train. Be careful now and bring in the truck. You know Trammell is mighty careful how we manage these things. Let's all have a snifter, however, before we break up. Stranger," turning to me for the first time, "would you like a drink of the real truck?"

I politely declined, and bidding them good day rode on toward Spring Place, whither I was bound.

As I crossed the Amicolola river I cast a glance of wonder and admiration on the awesome beauty of the somber scenery brought out in strong relief by the yellow flood of light from the declining sun which ebbed and flowed around the craggy cliffs, all festooned with drooping laurel and rhododendron.

Suddenly from the depths of the glen I thought I caught a glimpse of a yellow sunbonnet and one swift gleam of two blue eyes ablaze with wrathful excitement, but as the vision was but for an instant I charged it up to my overwrought imagination.

Reaching the mountain village, I entered the hotel, and after an exchange of greetings and a polite excuse for refusing a proffered snifter I sat down in the chair of state on the long piazza to rest my wearied limbs.

Pretty soon I observed an unwonted stir about the courthouse, and strolling over there in the deepening twilight I saw in the center of an interesting circle one of the heroes of the episode of the afternoon. He was bareheaded, and the blood was dripping from a wound in the forearm made by a bullet.

"Yes," he said, panting with fatigue, "we arrested Lem Durden, but he got clear away. We overtook him about three miles beyond Amicolola river an found three kegs and half a dozen jugs mixed up in the load of apples an cabbages. Joe Green an Jasper Hicks were left to fetch the wagon, an me an Johnson an old Lem got in the buggy an started to Dalton.

"We all took several drinks around afore we broke up an war feelin purty good, laffin at old Lem, as we drove into the ford of the Amicolola.

"Jist as we riz the bank this side the firin begun. Ther' must 'a' been a dozen, fur the bullets whistled permiscously. The hoss wheeled round an dashed across the river, flingin us all out, an old Lem scrambled up the river bank an disappeared in the lorril bushes.

"Johnson's hurt bad, shot through the shoulder. I got a swipe in the arm, an I guess it'll be sore for some time.

"No, we didn't see a soul an didn't hear a word said, but, my God, how the bullets did whistle!"

Over the distant barrier of the mountains up leaped the queen of the night, flooding the earth with the golden glory of the harvest moon. Then I thought of the flaring yellow sunbonnet and the blazing blue eyes that I had caught a glimpse of at the crossing of the Amicolola. It was the finishing touch of my "symphony in yellow."—Atlanta Constitution.

The species of moss called rostoch is said by naturalists to bear an exceedingly close resemblance in its sensitiveness to an animal structure. Upon the least touch it trembles and shrinks away as though in pain.

SENATE IN SESSION.

The Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill Discussed with Amendments.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The open session of the Senate to-day was devoted to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill, which was not completed up to the time of adjournment.

One of the amendments to the bill, offered by Mr. Wilson, of Washington, provoked considerable civil service discussion. It required the appointment of commissioners to classify Northern Pacific lands in the Northwest, "by and with the consent of the Senate."

Mr. Gorman urged that this was an effort to take the offices out of the civil service. The amendment was finally modified and adopted so that the appointees shall be confirmed by the Senate, and all be divided between the political parties. Mr. Gorman remarked that he hoped the provision as to due recognition of the political parties would be carried out in good faith. In certain recent appointments no attention had been paid to such provisions. Commissioners had been appointed, he said, without reference to their party loyalty and party interests.

Mr. Morgan offered an amendment appropriating $50,000 for the improvement of Pearl harbor, Hawaii. It was agreed to.

Mr. Pettigrew, of South Dakota, offered an amendment authorizing the President to suspend the order of President Cleveland withdrawing millions of acres from the public domain and constituting them forest reserves. The amendment also proposed an appropriation of $150 000 for surveys of these lands.

Mr. Pettigrew added that assurances had been given—he would not say from whom—that if the amendment was adopted the President would suspend the order. In response to a statement by Mr. Gorman that a point of order would be made against the amendment, Mr. Pettigrew declared that if the amendment went out on a point of order he would see that the pending bill did not pass until some relief was given as to the orders creating forest reservations.

Final action on the amendment was deferred.

At 5 10 p. m. the Senate adjourned.

RAILWAY POSTAL CLERKS.

Annual Convention Held at Atlanta—Officers Elected and Delegates to National Convention Appointed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ATLANTA, May 5.—The fourth division of railway postal clerks held its annual convention here to day, President J. W. Brown in the chair. There was considerable discussion over a proposition to make the organization a general mutual accident order. This was referred to the National Order.

A resolution was adopted endorsing the bill of L. F. Livingston, now pending before Congress, providing a severe penalty for any one who enters a postal car by violence or who assaults a postal clerk.

Delegates to the National Association Convention, which meets in Philadelphia on June 16th, were elected as follows: A. J. Kelly, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; John Hogan, of Waycross, Ga.; H. P. Potter, Jacksonville, and S. E. Henry, Charleston, S. C.

New officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: J. W. Brown, re-elected president; C. W. Eddins, vice president; R. C. White, re-elected secretary and treasurer. Jacksonville, Fla., was selected as the meeting place for the association next year. The convention will be held on the first Wednesday in May.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

Parnell's Nominations Confirmed—Other Nominations Sent to the Senate.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The Senate in executive session to-day confirmed the nomination of Thos. R. Parnell, to be United States District Judge, for the Eastern District of North Carolina.

The President to-day sent the following nominations to the Senate:

Henry A. Castle, of Minnesota, auditor of the postoffice department.

Stanford Newell, of Minnesota, envoy extraordinary and Minister plenipotentiary of the United States to the Netherlands.

James Bixby of Minnesota, commissioner to negotiate with the Indians of Cherokee and Choctaw nations.

ARBITRATION TREATY

It Failed to Secure Ratification in the Senate.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, May 5—The Senate to-day, by the vote of 43 to 26, refused to ratify the General Arbitration Treaty between the United States and Great Britain negotiated by Secretary Olney and Sir Julian Pauncefote. The rules of the Senate require a majority of two-thirds for the ratification of treaties. Hence four more affirmative votes would have been required to secure a favorable result.

DESPERATE FIGHTING AT VELESTINO AND PHARSALOS.

Crown Prince Constantine Telegraphed "With God's Help Our Side Has Conquered"—The Slaughter Was Fearful, But the Turkish Force of 40,000 Was Repulsed—Another Battle Expected To-day.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

SALONICA, May 5.—It is officially announced that eight Turkish warships have left the Dardanelles, and after proceeding to the Cassandra Peninsula, sailed for the island of Lemnos (Stalimi).

LONDON, May 5.—The Athens correspondent of the Daily Mail says:

"Ten thousand Turks attacked the Greek position at Velestino. The fire ceased at 4 o'clock this afternoon, and it is evident that the Greeks have met with a great success.

"There has been great slaughter at Pharsalos, where the battle is proceeding. Crown Prince Constantine telegraphs as to the engagement at Velestino: 'With God's help our side has conquered.'"

The Athens correspondent of the Times says: "Simultaneously with the attack at Velestino, the Turks attacked the Greek outposts at Tatar, near Pharsalos. It is said that both attacks have been repulsed by the Greeks. General Smolenski says: "The brigade at Velestino is deluged with blood."

ATHENS, May 5.—An American man-of-war has joined the international squadron at Phalerum.

The Greek Government has protested to the Powers against the acts of violence and rapine being committed by the Turks in Thessaly.

LONDON, May 5.—A dispatch to the Times from Constantinople says that the special and extraordinary expenses of the War Department from March 13th, 1896, to April 13th, 1897, were three and a half million pounds sterling.

LONDON, May 6.—The Athens correspondent of the Daily Telegraph under date of Wednesday, says:

"Following is the official dispatch from Major Ballis, chief of staff of the Greek forces in Thessaly, describing the fighting at Pharsalos:

"The Turks attacked our advance posts at 2 o'clock. Since yesterday the enemy's movement had indicated an intention to cut off our left wing, and to-day they attacked our front. Our advance posts retreated, as they were fighting against very much superior numbers and took up a position in front of our right wing.

"An artillery duel ensued along the extensive line. The enemy's infantry advanced in perfect order at three points and in large numbers, but they were speedily checked by our infantry.

"The respective losses are as yet unknown. The Crown Prince took a very active part in the combat, and advanced within range of the Turkish fire, greatly inspiring the men. Prince Nicholas was equally active at the right wing, and directed the fire of his battery against the Turkish batteries. His coolness greatly encouraged the troops.

"We maintain all our positions intact, and the engagement will certainly be continued to-morrow (Thursday.) We calculate that about 15,000 Turks attacked our wing. They rushed down the hill slopes in vast numbers. The enemy was our superior in both artillery and cavalry, the calibre of their guns was larger, while their number was almost double ours. We had no cavalry, because our only squadron has been used for scouting and had gone to Trikkala.'

LONDON, May 5.—The correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at Volo, under date of Wednesday, says: "The biggest battle of the war began near Velestino this morning. As a result of it the Turkish force of 40,000 men has been repulsed. The Turkish plan was to seize the hills on the north, dividing Pharsalos from Velestino."

ATHENS, May 5.—The Greek fleet has captured, at the entrance of the Gulf of Salonica, a schooner in which Sir Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, the Anglo-American member of Parliament, recently visited the Turks. The vessel will be taken to the Piraeus for examination.

LARISSA, May 3.—(Delayed in transmission.)—Two batteries of howitzers arrived here this evening from Elassona, and fourteen battalions of infantry, four squadrons of cavalry and four batteries of artillery have been sent to reinforce the Turkish troops fighting at Velestino. The victory of the Turks seems assured. The prisoners taken report that the population, including that of Volo, is disposed to submit, and from various sources it is learned that the Greeks are badly demoralized and discontented with the Crown Prince and his officers. We are awaiting a definite result at Velestino before making a general advance.

The soldiers who were wounded in the first engagement at Velestino are now coming in to the hospitals of Larissa. The latter are well organized with the materials which the Greeks abandoned.

The inhabitants of Larissa denounce the commander of the Greek troops, and even accuse him of treason. They hope for an early intervention upon the part of the powers in order to prevent the complete ruin of the country.

It is stated here that the Crown Prince of Greece ordered Larissa to be burned, previous to evacuating the place. But, it is said, there was no time to carry out his instructions.

The Turks claim that the fighting which has taken place at Velestino and in which they are said to have been repulsed, was merely a reconnoissance in forces, and its object, that of finding out the strength of the enemy, being achieved, the officers had the utmost difficulty in inducing the men to retire. They were obliged, it is claimed, to threaten them, and even then they could not prevent the Turks, in defiance, from singing during the withdrawal, the men declaring they were challenging the Greeks and persisting in singing in order to secure if possible a renewal of the fighting.

There was a striking feature in Friday's cavalry charge. Col. Mahmound Bey was fired upon by a Greek officer, who sent four bullets from his revolver in the direction of the Turkish officer. Mahmound Bey then galloped ahead of his men and with one fierce blow with his sword completely severed the Greek officer's head from his body.

The heat here is tremendous, but the troops are suffering without any complaint and the doctors are greatly impressed with the wonderful vitality of the wounded Turks. One Turkish soldier who was shot in the stomach remained in the ranks and afterward walked ten miles. Another Turkish soldier who was wounded twice in the legs and once in the shoulder continued attending to his duties for 24 hours, until an officer noticed his condition and ordered him to the hospital. The wounded men recover with wonderful rapidity. This is attributed to the abstemious lives of the Turks. The Sultan has sent a number of landaus for the use of the wounded.

The Greek priests hold regular services here, and the town is perfectly quiet.

LARISSA, May 5.—Six divisions of Turkish troops have marched forward to Pharsalos, and it is understood here that the Porte has given Edhem Pasha a free hand.

William B. Meyer and Henry B. Caristhill, wholesale grocers, trading as James Meyer & Co., Baltimore, have made an assignment for the benefit of creditors. The assets are estimated at $19 500. No estimate has been made of liabilities.

HAVANA ADVICES.

Proceedings in the Competitor Case Ordered by the Government—Reports of Engagements with Insurgents.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

HAVANA, May 5.—The Government has ordered the Competitor case to be proceeded with immediately. There will be a separate proceeding in the case of the Americans, Oan Melton and Wm. Leavitt, to conform with the provisions of the treaty of 1831. It is understood that the Government is "favorably disposed" and that the result of the trial in their case will be a release. It is stated that Alfredo Laborde has not been able to prove his American citizenship.

The insurgent leader, Calixto Sotopence, his adjutant and sixteen of his followers have surrendered, it is announced, to the Spanish authorities at Sancti Spiritus.

The Murcio and Puerto Rico battalion have had a skirmish in Santa Clara with an insurgent force. The insurgent major, Luis Martinez, and nineteen of his command were killed.

Lieut. Col. Ferror, who has been operating against the insurgents in the district of Yaguaramos, province of Santa Clara, says that part of the province and a portion east of Ciomago de Zepata is favorable to peace. He adds that the insurgents are unable to face the Spanish forces.

The well known insurgent leaders, Guzman and Pino, it is said, have been killed at Momenque, and Almoida has been obliged to surrender to the Spanish authorities.

During the month of April there were 586 deaths from smallpox in Guira de Melena, a town of 4 500 inhabitants.

It is reported that the successor of the Marquis Palmerola as Secretary of the Government will be General Vazan, who was formerly Secretary of Captain General Weyler at Manila in the Philippine islands, or Francisco Gentanals. The latter is a civilian.

The cruiser Infanta Isabel, now at New York will return to Gibara, but the Infanta Maria Taresa, on leaving New York, will proceed to Spain.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

A Crowd of Visitors at the White House—Georgia Republicans Urge Gen. Longstreet for Railroad Commissioner to Succeed Gen. Wade Hampton.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—There has not been such a crowd at the White House in weeks as thronged the Presidential ante-rooms to-day. A delegation of Kickapoo and Pottowattomie Indians, with painted faces, feathered headgear and colored blankets, saw Mr. McKinley and urged him, through their interpreter, to appoint W. S. Field, of Oklahoma Territory, deputy commissioner of Indian affairs. Stephen Collins and A. D. Wilkins, of Pittsburg, representing the Junior Order of American Mechanics, were introduced to the President by Col. W. A. Stone and had a talk with him about the appointment of a commissioner of immigration. The order is not backing any candidate, but is desirous that the appointee should earnestly favor the restriction of immigration.

A delegation from the National Saengerbund, accompanied by Mayor Warwick, of Philadelphia, invited the President to attend the National Saengerfest in the City of Brotherly Love during its sessions, June 21—26. They told Mr. McKinley that forty cities and eleven States would be represented and that there would be a chorus of 6 000 voices and an orchestra of 250 instruments. The President said he would be glad to attend if his official duties would permit.

A delegation of Georgia Republicans, headed by Col. Farrow, called on the President in the afternoon in behalf of General Longstreet, who is a candidate for railroad commissioner to succeed General Wade Hampton.

PARIS BAZAAR FIRE.

The Number of Dead Estimated at One Hundred and Forty-Three.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PARIS, May 5.—A sombre feeling pervades every class of society. The newspapers without exception describe the disaster at the grand bazaar decharite in the sober and simple terms befitting so appalling an event. The catastrophe will always be remembered as one of the most fearful that ever befell an European city.

Nothing comparable in loss of life has ever occurred here except the fire which destroyed the Opera Comique in 1887. Singularly enough that disaster happened in the same month of the year, and eighty persons were burned to death, while forty-five were officially registered as missing.

It is now estimated that there were in the neighborhood of 1,200 persons in the building when the fire was discovered, about one-half of whom escaped unhurt. Some estimates place the number of dead at 143, others at a still higher figure.

GRAIN AND TRADE CONGRESS

Convened in Kansas City, Mo., with over Hundred Delegates Present.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

KANSAS CITY, MO., May 5.—The South and West Grain and Trade Congress, with over a hundred delegates from the States in those sections present, convened here to day. The session was taken up by welcoming addresses and the appointment of committees. To-night the delegates were tendered an informal reception by the Commercial Club. M. V. Watson, president of the club, said the object of the convention was to establish closer relations between the Middle West and the South. Breedlove Smith, of New Orleans, responded for Louisiana; Samuel L. Apmore, of Charleston, for South Carolina, and F. C. Bouyer, of Tampa, for Florida. The convention will get down to work to-morrow morning.

The Winston Board of Trade Protest Against the Proposed Increase.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHARLOTTE, May 5.—The Winston N. C., Tobacco Board of Trade met today to protest against the increase in the Senate tariff bill of the tax on tobacco from six to eight cents. The board will seek the co-operation of all North Carolina and Virginia tobacco manufacturers in opposing the increase.

Child Slavery.

There is, it is to be hoped, no country in the world where child slavery is so terribly bitter for children or so disgraceful and dishonorable to its people, and, above all, to its government, as in Italy. A report lately drawn up by Dr. Lombardo on the sulphur mines of Sicily is so fearful as to be almost incredible. Dr. Lombardo says that in this province alone 5,000 children are employed in the extraction of sulphur, and that it is an established fact that they are literally "spurred" by their overseers to quicken their movements, some of the marks frequently remaining livid on the skin for as long as ten days. These brutal creatures will even burn the shins and calves of the children with their lamps to make them work faster, these burns constantly resulting in loathsome sores, which the doctor has often been required to investigate, as also the diseases to which they give rise. —New York Ledger.

A Meteorite That Paid a Mortgage.

Another illustration of uses to which meteorites may be put before their real character is known is afforded by those of Kiowa county, Kan. They fell on a prairie where rocks were scarce and valuable, and the farmers of the vicinity found meteorites convenient for holding down haystacks, stable roofs or covers to rain barrels. For such purposes they might have been used for a long time had not the wife of one of the farmers become convinced that there was something unusual about them and called in an expert to examine them. He at once recognized their nature, and the enterprising woman finally sold hers for enough to pay off a heavy mortgage upon the farm.—Oliver C. Farrington in St. Nicholas.

Stopping a Small Leak.

A Detroit merchant has been so careful in the conduct of his business as to be afflicted with very few bad accounts. But there is one citizen who, despite the fact that his record elsewhere was bad, managed to get in debt to the firm.

"I suppose," said the bookkeeper on the first of the month, "that we will send Skinnim that bill regularly for several months to come?"

"No," replied the merchant. "Times have been pretty hard, and I guess we'd better not lose any chance to economize. Just charge what he owes to profit and loss and pay no more attention to him. It will save ink and a good deal of wear and tear on the pens."—Detroit Free Press.
